THE ORANGE GROVE BRIDGE. A correspondent elsewhere in this issue reviews the Orange Grove Bridge question and corrects some erreneous rumors concerning the project which had gained circulation. The statements of our correspondent should be read and calmly considered, especially that which avers that it would not require more than three-fourths of a cent on the hundred dollars on the present basis of taxation to meet the interest on the outlay in Howard county. It is admitted by all that the Patapsco river go.ge practically shuts Howard county out from easy access to Baltimore and it is admitted also that good avenues once opened in that direction with electric railroads land will necessarily enhance in value. It remains for the people of Howard county to decide whether the advantages to be gained will justify the expenditure. The people generally are suspicious of all enterprises involving increased taxation, but if once demonstrated that the investment would be for the public good it would simply be a lack of business astuteness not to go into it. We trust some of our friends will read the article and send us their views on the question confining their articles to as limited space as possible.

The principal topic of discussion bility of securing equitable taxation in this state is the proposed new be reached in view of the clashing interests which are seeking to have a hand in making the law will be the Gordian knot to untie. Governor Brown is working hard on his convocation idea, and the people will await with interest the fate of it. This question has been gone over so frequently that it is scarcely possible any new scheme over that embodied in in the Hayes bill will be brought to Some would-be disturbers of Democratic peace are endeavoring to stir up trouble out of the incident that Speaker Crisp was shabbily treated at the recent banquet in New York of representative men, conspicuous among whom were President-elect Cleveland, Carl Schurz and others, because Mr. Crisp were not invited to speak. Doubtless it was an unfortunate oversight, but to suppose any studied insult was intended to the third officer of the government at this stage of Democratic prestige is not that their will should be respected and within the pale of reason. The captious gentlemen who affect being exercised over it should be informed that Mr. Cleveland would not permit such gross discourtesy.

Talk about the danger of Mr. Cleveland calling an extra session of Congress as you will, the same restlessness and anxiety for a change, which pervaded the people before the election, still exists. The demand was clear and unmistakable and the feeling has crystallized. In the recent contest there was no deception on the part of the Democratic party. The questions at issue were plain and easily understood | ley bill that I do not approve. The people and the people spoke.

Trying to Steal the Senate,

Some of the leading Republican newspapers and politicians profess to think it best for their party that the Democrats should have unobstructed control of both houses of Congress as well as of the executive. But this is not the way the tariff barons view the matter. They paid a large sum of money for control of the government and they are not willing that the fat that was fried out of them should go for nothing. The laws of Congress are fixed now just to suit them, and if they can be kept unchanged their object will be gained. The only way to do this is to keep the Senate from being Democratic, and a scheme to accomplish this, by fair means or foul, is, it is believed, now being practiced. The party which held on to the presidency in 1876, after being out of present difficulties Governor voted down, which admitted the mining camp States with the belief that they would make their power in the Senate perpetual, that got the Legislautre of Montana by the manipulation of the Silver Bow returns, is at work again as aforetime. The Senate is composed of eighty eight members. Forty-four, with the casting vote of the Vice-President, will give the Democrats a majority over all. In the present Senate there are fortyseven Republicans, thirty-nine Democrats and two Populists. The Democrats must therefore gain five new Senators to have control of the government. One has certainly been gained in New York and one in Wisconsin. The three more that are necessary are expected from the States of California, Montana and Wyoming, and it is in these three States that the fine work for the preservation of the McKinley bill is going on. In California the Democrats at the last election indorsed four Farmer's Alliance candidates and they were elected. Counting these four with the Democrats, hat party has a majority on joint balot; without them they will lose the Senatorship. It is believed that the Republicans are attempting to make some kind of a deal with these men; but the Democrats are said to have no fear of

In Wyoming the Republican plan seems to have the merit of simplicity. It consists in simply giving the certificates of election to Republican candidates for the Legislature whether they are elected or not.

In Carbon county one member of the of the vote, leaving out a Democratic precinct and electing two Republican members of the Legislature. The other two members signed an abstract showing the election of the Democrats by including all the precincts. The State board by the one man. A mandamus to compel the counting of the precinct is asked for and is returnable next Thursday. In Montana the hope of the Republicans is based upon having the returns of Choteau county counted. These were thrown out by a Republican board for glaring fraud, and application has been made by the Republicans to a judge who is said to be a strong partisan to have them counted. Democrats, however, seem to be confident that they will elect the Senator, despite all this.

In Nebraska and Kansas the fight is between the Republicans and the Populists. In Kansas the Populists have become so indignant at the methods of Republican canvassers that it is expected ten thousand will come to the State Capital on the day the Legislature meets. At present it looks as if there might be two Legislatures. In Nebraska the election of Senator may be decided by a single vote, and it is said that Ropublican canvassers have acted in a high-handed way .- Baltimore

Sensible Mr. Ingalls.

Ex-Senator Ingalls believes in giving the people their own way. When the voters of the country have spoken in an unmistakable manner he thinks obeyed. In an interview he says: I hope the Democrats will have a majority in both branches of Congress. The people have demanded a change in governmental policy. They have spoken, and they spoke out loud. The wayfaring man, e'en though a fool, can read the meaning of the election returns this year The country has asked for a revenue tariff. Notwithstanding that I believe the effect of the policy indorsed at the polls will be detrimental, I say that inasmuch as the people have asked for an object lesson on the subject of the tariff let them have it, I have studied the matter to some extent and believe that protection is the proper policy. Still it may be that we have progressed far enough in the mechanic arts and in other directions to be ready to discard that policy. I do not know; I am ready to learn. There are some things about the McKinas whole, seem to be very much displeased with it. Let us have something different.—N. Y. World.

The Single-Tax System.

It is a strange coincidence that Henry George should be found expounding the single-tax principle in Maryland at the moment when the people of the entire state are criticising Governor Brown for his course in vetoing the Hayes bill and afterward trying to shift he responsibility upon a popular convocation of representative taxpayers. It is stranger still that the only place on the green earth where the single-tax theory is in operation is in a small town in a state where tax-dodging is one of the chief occupations of its rich men.

In other words, the principle now being applied in Hyattsville comes up at an opportune time to attract attention and to receive the discussion which it leserves. Briefly stated, the single-tax principle proposes to raise all public from a tax on land values. Land does not escape, cannot be moved or concealed-it is the one tangible form of property which can be made sure by he assessor. As a consequence, under old systems of taxations, land pays an anequal burden because its owner can not become a tax-dodger. Under the new scheme the public burden would be assessed upon land values alone, and all would be treated justly.

This is what is claimed by the diciples of Henry George for the scheme in operation in Hyattsville, and its consideration could not have a more opportune time. Doubtless it has its objections, but so does the system now in vogue, or its amendment would not be proposed. In casting about, therefore, a royal road Brown and his advisers should not overlook the possibilities of the principle being applied in Hyattsville.-Baltimore

Congressman Ohliger's Views. L. P. Ohliger, the democrat who was elected to represent Governor McKinley's old district in the next Congress, is in the city on railroad business. He says that the last fight in Ohio was one in which every democrat in the State from the republicans on account of the price of wool, which, it was promised, would advance under the action of the change of sentiment in the State, Mr. wick, who defeated McKinley, only won majority this year in the same district was over 3,400. Mr. Ohliger thinks that the next Governor of Ohio will be a of Congress.—Balto Sun.

The Plot to Seize the Senate. It is too early to form a clear opinion as to the real success of these plots. We do not believe that they can be carried through to the final seating in the United States Senate for six years of the representatives of a defeated party. But failure cannot wipe out the disgrace to the "a party of great moral ideas" that, after trying to rob them .- New York Post.

It is the biggest boat on the lakes and said to be the largest excursion steamer in the world. She was built in just seventy working days, and in this respect, too, is a record breaker. The boat was built to carry passengers during the World's Fair from the Auditorium pier in Chicago to Jackson Park. She is wholly of steel, 362 feet long, 42 breadth of beam, 24 deep, with seven water-tight compartments. She will have triple expansion engines of 2,600 horse-power, is expected to develop a speed of twenty miles and will carry

5,000 passengers. About seventy-five cases of destitution. resulting from the great strike, have been reported to the relief committee at Homestead, Pa., and a severe spell of wintry weather will see the number largely increased.

Let them follow the example of Mrs. H. Herbechter, Stevens' Point, Wis., who for five years suffered sleeplessness, tried physicians and different medicines without success. But one bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine caused sound sleep every night and she is feeling like a new person. Mrs. Elizabeth Wheeler, Laramie City, Wyoming, who tried all other remedies, declares that after three weeks' use of the Nervine for Headache, Nervous Prostration, etc., she was entirely relieved. THE ORANGE GROVE BRIDGE. A Review of the Situation-Some Errone

To the Editor of THE TIMES. answering the invitation which you give to state clearly the facts about the Orange Grove Bridge for the benefit of the people. As for the fate of the bridge the promoters feel very much as Mr. Cleveland did. They were ahead of public sentiment, and they feel assured that it will not require four years for the farmers of the two counties to understand how they have been misled by erroneous Baltimore county expends for the same statements. Some of these I would like | purpose. to touch upon.

1. It was said, that the cost of $15.000 o each county was only the beginning and that twice that sum would be required before the end came. Now in reply to this, there are responsible engineers who are ready to take the contract at a lower figure than the amount named in the bill passed by the Legislature. 2. It was stated as an objection, that the larger portion of the approack to the bridge on the Baltimore county side went through the land of a single individual and therefore that the scheme was simply an individual scheme of self interest. Now, in reply to this the petitioners in the two counties repreented over $2,000,000 of property. Beides this it is the first time that I ever heard that the proposed opening of a large body of property was a matter to be objected to or a mark of self-interest. on the contrary, I have always understood that one of the first signs of progress was the breaking up of large blocks of property into smaller holdings. 3. It was stated that the rate of tax would be so increased, as to be onerous to the farmer. Now the fact is, after a care ul calculation, that three-fourths of one cent on the hundred dollars on the pres ent basis of taxation would meet the entire interest on the outlay made by took part. Large accessions were made Howard county, and after ten years an additional one cent on the hundred doliars would be sufficient to provide a sinking fund sufficient to meet the prin-McKinley bill. above high water mark for three purposes: to get beyond the possibility of a flood, to avoid a grade crossing and to obtain easy grades to the station. Al this was established by accurate survey and these surveys were made accessible by publication of their whereabouts in he public press.

In these surveys is included an entire dan for passenger and freight traffic at Orange Grove and any engineer who wanted to take the trouble to examine these plans on the ground would be able to convince himself in a few minutes that there is the amplest accommoda tion, according to these plans, for both passenger and freight traffic. As for grades, there is not a grade the whole line where a horse attached to a buggy cannot trot, nor is there any that is not a better grade than exists at present at Hebester and at Ellicott City. 5. The proposed bridge will be 60 feet long, five spans, twenty-five feet above the railroad, tifty feet above high water mark and 18 feet clear roadway It is perfectly easy to calculate whether $30,000 will build such a bridge, but there is one thing much easier than this, that is, to say that it won't build it without taking the trouble to make the calculation. I have the plans and esti mates at my office, open to everybody and will be glad to receive any correct ion where there is any mistake in figure or statement. My opinion is that the people of How ard and Baltimore counties have made a mistake which they will soon wish to correct, that they have failed to embrace the opportunity of opening up thous ands of acres which have already beer too long closed to the march of progress and improvement. The impulse giver by even the idea of such an improve ment as the one in question, has beer such that already two parties are considering the route by Orange Grove bridge for the establishment of an electric railroad. One of these roads is already in progress from Washington to greatly from Nervous Prostration and Ashton, Montgomery county, some nineteen miles, and the project is to come from Ashton direct to the Columbia pike, and thence by the most direcroute to Orange Grove, and from that point to use the extension of Wilking Avenue; the other project is in con nection with the proposed Boulevard. In conclusion let me say one word Ellicott City. There is no point either county more elegible for improve ment, and all that she wants is to recog nize that health and vigor of the bod come from fresh blood flowing unre strained through all the members, and that to attempt to confine it to one chan nel means simply decay and death to all
